FORMAT

The flagship programme. Why strategies die between the slide and the operations, and how to build the transfer mechanism: priorities, management rhythm, accountability, progress measures. For boards that have a good strategy and a problem with delivering it.

WHAT WE COVER

- Why strategies die: the gap between the slide and Monday morning
- Priorities that hold: choosing few enough things that the organisation believes you
- The transfer mechanism: translating strategic choices into owned commitments
- Management rhythm: reviews that move work forward instead of reporting it
- Accountability without theatre: owners, decisions and consequences
- Progress measures: knowing you are on track before the annual results tell you

YOU LEAVE WITH

- A diagnosis of where your own strategy loses traction, mapped during the session
- A design for your management rhythm: cadence, participants, decisions
- A one-page execution scorecard for your top strategic priorities

WHO IT IS FOR

Management boards and executive teams that have a strategy and want it delivered. Strongest as a closed session for one leadership team working on its own strategy.
